D. B. Cooper, $200,000 leap still a mystery

PORLAND, Ore. [UPI]—It's Thanksgiving time and thoughts around here not only turn to turkey, pumpkin pie and football, but also to D. B. Cooper, history's first and only successful parachuting sky bandit. Where is he and where did he stash the cash?

Three years ago on Thanksgiving eve Cooper went aboard a Northwest Orient Airlines flight in Portland for a short hop to Seattle.

The plane wasn't airborne much more than five minutes when one of the more bizarre crimes in history was committed.

COOPER, THREATENING to set off an explosive device, demanded and got $200,000 in $20 bills delivered, along with three parachutes, to the plane in Seattle. Then after allowing the passengers to debark, he ordered the crew to fly the plane to Reno, Nev., following a course down the western sector of Washington and Oregon before cutting across the mountains on a direct flight to Reno. Somewhere en route he bailed out via the tail exit.

No trace of Cooper or the money ever was found.

It set off a chain of similar skyjackings that changed the face of air travel throughout the world.

UPI Telephoto

FBI artist's 1971 composite sketch of D. B. Cooper.

BUT ONLY Cooper beat the law at taking the money and jumping. The law still is looking for him.

"The case is an active one, not only here but thru the United States," said Julius Mattson, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Portland office.

"We're still getting leads," he said, "but not quite as heavy as we were. The case still is in the public mind and when the public thinks of it, it also thinks of us."

"THERE REALLY has been no substantive development. The work now is mostly eliminating possibilities, proving or disproving tips offered."

"Not one of the $20 bills has turned up anywhere."

Cooper apparently strapped the money to his body for the jump. A theory that he may have fallen into Lake Merwin in southwest Washington about 30 miles north of Portland could not be proved.

THE RASH of Skyjackings that followed brought multiple changes for the air traveler, the major one being search of luggage and persons.

The electronic surveillance has produced an arsenal of weapons and explosives.

The outside layers of cloth and just left the ropes that separate each panel and the band that goes around the bottom and the three inside sections of cloth, are still intact.

We looked around at the trees in the vicinity and found that a ponderous pine tree about thirty feet up the hill from the chute had something heavy fall through it, breaking off a row of branches in. To the bottom. Whatever had come down through that tree had taken an awful beating.
Now it started to make sense why that was just half of a chute we found. Whoever was in it was left dangling about fifteen feet from the ground because all the small dead limbs had been crushed as if a heavy load had been sprung.

against the side of the tree.

Then they climbed the shroud lines and cut off the inside shroud lines and the hem on the bottom of the ~~bottom~~ of the chute on each side and let the nylon panels on each side split to the top so that it doubled the length of the chute so they could reach the ground, and then he took <sup>the</sup> end of the chute ~~and~~ on the ground and twisted it into rope so he could snap it loose from the limb it was hooked onto.

Then when he got it down, he cut the top seam and the ropes at the cone, separating the two halves and hid this half we found and took the other half with him for a shelter. He also took all the shroud lines from the part he left and the

The only person we can think of that would go to this much trouble to hide his truck so carefully was that Cooper that hijacked that plane in Seattle, Washington a few years ago, and this place is directly on the route that plane went. This is seven thousand feet elevation and bitterly cold that time of year and ten rough miles to the nearest habitation and if he was badly injured, I doubt if he made it out.

As soon as we got home I called your office in San Francisco and the young fellow that answered wasn't interested. He said you know that Cooper jumped out in Oregon and he doubts that he could have driven five hundred miles before he hit

The ground. I said that is the last time I try to help you people with any thing but now it seems that every one in town knows about it and are all going on a two hundred thousand dollar hunt and when I got home from work one guy had even torn a chunk from the chile for a souvenir, so I've decided to write you and let you know the whole thing before some one gets hurt in those mountains.

If you are interested please let me know and I will keep the rest of the chile intact and I won't tell any one the exact location or found it.

Sincerely

Napa, Calif.

NEW YORK OFFICE

OFFICE ADMINISTRATION

Globe Indemnity Co.

7/30/76.

If you, at this late date, are still interested to find "D.B. Cooper", he is Marion Mooney and lives at Rt. 1, Box 140 on Jasper Road, Springfield, Ore. He has living in [redacted]

Mooney's father is supposed to live in Springfield, Ore. When he parachuted with the loot, he came down East of Eugene-Springfield area and had an arm and/or leg injured and was nursed back to health by a Physician and Surgeon by name of Dr. Joseph Keever of Eugene, Ore. Subsequently he bought his present home which was [redacted] by Dr. Keever together with 47 acres of land. Dr. Keever inherited the place from his allegedly deceased father Clyde A. Keever, who was not buried but merely plaid "possum". What was in the coffin was not a man but a wax effigy. I have heard his voice and have seen him with [redacted] as late as 4/7/73 and 12/25/73, respectively. And he allegedly "died" on 9/19/72. (By the way, another man [redacted] -old" died" in the same manner with the same circumstances. His name is [redacted]

Ore. who [redacted]

since he was knee-high to a grasshopper but is now [redacted]. Imagine my shock when I saw him on the [redacted] on [redacted] only recently. [redacted]

b6
b7c

[redacted] are members of the West Coast Syndicate. So is another [redacted] I believe.

So is another [redacted] who deals in [redacted] who moved to [redacted] before the disappearance of [redacted]

Ore.

b6
b7c

Mooney himself came here from Elmira, not far from Eugene, where he had lived in a trailer house and, so the story goes, had been a Christmas tree farmer. Since living at his present address on Jasper Rd. he has [redacted] bought 150 or 250 acres of land on the coast near Florence, Ore. and is [redacted] buying or has bought some property in or near Roseburg, Ore.

b6
b7c

He and [redacted] do a lot of traveling to California and even to Washington, D.C. [redacted] is going to move to [redacted] where he will live in a home with swimming pool.

b6

During the (not too long ago) Canadian multi-million dollar robbery in Ontario (I believe, there was an unusual amount of activity that was indeed suspicious, around the [redacted], but I can not prove anything definite.)

b6

In my opinion, however, his (Mooney's) Fingerprints in his army records will prove to be the same as D.B. Cooper's.

b7c

[redacted] intensely interested in parachuting and flying, so I think he was really in the Air-force, though [redacted], that he was injured in the army in a truck-accident. Bet there is no record of such an accident in his Service Record.

DB Cooper 3/649.

Judges feel bill scants Lane courts

Two bills introduced in the Legislature would give Lane County one additional Circuit Court judge and one more District Court judge — but that's fewer than Lane Courts feel they need.

Sponsored by the Oregon State Bar Assn. HB 2221 would add one new circuit judge each to Lane, Marion and Clackamas counties, and provide an additional circuit judge for the district made up of Crook, Deschutes, Gilliam, Grant, Jefferson and Wheeler counties.

HB 2216 would provide one district

Hijack loss ruled insured

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Supreme Court has ruled that an insurance company must reimburse Northwest Airlines for $180,000 of the $200,000 lost in the "D. B. Cooper" hijacking in 1971.

The company carried a "blanket crime policy" with Globe Indemnity Co., New York, with a $20,000 deductible.

A passenger identified as D. B. Cooper hijacked Northwest Flight 105 on Nov. 24, 1971, threatening to blow up the plane unless he was given $200,000 and a parachute.

The money was furnished at Seattle, Wash., and Cooper apparently parachuted from a rear door of the plane between Seattle and Portland. Neither Cooper nor the money has been located.

One portion of the insurance policy covered loss of money within the company premises or while being conveyed by a messenger.

The insurance company argued that its policy was intended to cover funds from ticket sales and other money normally in company coffers, not money borrowed to meet a threat. The airline borrowed the $200,000 from a Seattle bank.

The court held that extortion was covered by the broad language of the policy and that the plane was part of the airline "premises."

Writing for the court, Justice Lawrence Yetka said that even though hijacking was not envisioned, it is covered since it was not specifically excluded by the insurer.

Yetka said it is a "well settled" rule of law that ambiguous language in an insurance policy will be strictly construed in favor of the insured party.

Properly packed parcels please postal people

By MOLLY HUNTER
Living Today Writer

It's that time again when the world begins thinking about holiday mailing — the time of year when millions of packages are delivered safely and on time — or not delivered safely and on time.

Undeliverable packages, mainly due to improper packaging by the sender, is something that is and probably always will be a problem. There will never be a system, according to J.K. Lee Sr., Postmaster, that will be 100 percent damage free.

The greatest percentage of undeliverable packages begins with improper packaging by the sender. "If the package is not wrapped properly, the sender is doing himself a disfavor," Mr. Lee said.

He added that the post office tries to improve the system all the time by encouraging the sender to pack his parcels properly. Mr. Lee said the secret to whether it gets to its final destination or not is in the strength of the box that is used and the cushioning inside of the box.

Mr. Lee mentioned that the post office used to encourage the use of string in packaging, but now with the many varieties of tape on the market, such as the nylon reinforced tape, it encourages the tape instead. The post office discovered string to be susceptible to getting caught on various objects in contrast to tape.

The post office discourages the use of department store boxes — they simply are not strong enough. As for cushioning, the post office suggests plenty of newspaper, tissue paper, styrofoam or some kind of foam padding.

"Believe it or not," Mr. Lee said, "we have actually gotten packages that are simply brown paper bags stapled at both ends," he said.

Mr. Lee explained a new nationwide system that has been worked out. When a clerk accepts a package at the window, he must initial it in the lower right hand corner of the box. This helps identify who accepted the parcel, so if a parcel is improperly packaged, it is brought to the attention of the clerk responsible in order for him to become aware of such things in the future.

Last April, Mr. Lee devoted a great deal of time working with a group of men at the Atlanta Bulk Mail Center to identify any damage points at the center. "We worked day and night studying each point in the process of handling, loading and conveying. We went to extreme lengths to pad and cushion various points that we found to be hazardous in the loading process and handling of the bulk mail, such as the bars at the end of the slides and the eight miles of conveyer belts, which involve many sharp turns. There was quite a bit of equipment modification after this study," he said.

The result? A significant reduced number of damaged packages. Tossing and throwing has also been completely eliminated from the loading process, he added.

One may ask the common question about what happens to the packages that are never delivered.

If the package has any sort of identification anywhere on the outside or inside of it, it is given "first aid treatment", which usually involves taping up loose flaps with the strong nylon reinforced tape. This sort of thing, according to Mr. Lee, is usually detected during one of the sorting stages — it is extracted from the group, put in a plastic container and sent to "rewrap." Books, Mr. Lee stressed, are the most common problem since they are so heavy. They have a special machine that places metal bands on the box of books to insure against any more damage.

But then there are the packages that have absolutely no identification what-so-ever on the inside or out.

These parcels are sent to the Dead Parcel Office, which is a center strategically located throughout the United States. At the Dead Parcel Office, they are held for 60 days in order to give either the sender or receiver plenty of time to send out a tracer or file a claim on the parcel.

The articles are stored at the Dead Parcel Office according to what they are — there are bins for anything from shoes to photo albums.

If a claim or tracer has not been sent out within 60 days for a particular article, it is put up for public auction.

A claim, explained Mr. Lee, can be filed at any post office in the country — it does not necessarily have to be filed at the sender's or receiver's points. The same thing is true with a tracer.

The undeliverable packages will keep piling up as long as the sender continues to wrap his packages improperly. And, as Mr. Lee said, besides the fact that the ~~sender~~ may be improperly packaging the parcel, there is no system that is going to be 100 percent fool proof. But the public can help.

So, taking just a few more minutes of your time to look for a roll of tape or to check the strength of your box or to find a few more sheets of newspaper to cushion the articles can make the difference.

THE RIGHT WAY — Sandra Andress, window clerk at the main post office in Mobile, is happy to receive a package properly wrapped with enough tape to secure the package at all points. This package will probably reach its destination without any trouble because the sender took the time and the little bit of trouble to wrap it properly for mailing. # Uranium brings prosperity, problems

EDITOR'S NOTE — Ever since the fated day when a curious yellow rock, found in a canyon, turned out to be uranium, the lifestyle of Grants, N.M., has been boom and bust. Now it's boom again — as never before. But like every silverlined cloud, there's a dark side too.

By ROBERT LOCKE
Associated Press Writer

GRANTS, N.M. (AP) — Once upon a time this town called itself the carrot center of the nation, a modest boast, and its 2,000 people led the typically modest lives of tillers of the soil.

Then one day in 1950 a Navajo shepherd named Paddy Martinez, wandering through nearby Poison Canyon, picked up some peculiar yellow rocks and brought them into town.

Over the next decade the population leaped to 10,274 and Grants' agricultural face underwent profound change. But like many another boom, it ended as quickly as it began. The government, sole buyer of uranium in the early 1960s, found itself overstocked. Almost overnight, nearly a fourth of the town's population moved away and many who didn't, looked back fondly on the old carrot days.

Now, once again, Grants has become one of the boomingest towns in the nation.

The resurgence began about 1967, cautiously at first, when private firms began buying uranium against the day nuclear reactors would produce significant amounts of electricity. Then in 1974 the market price of New Mexico's milled uranium jumped from less than $8 a pound to one recent contract of $41.50 a pound.

"I think it's just great," said Larry Baca. Last year Baca, 19, was pumping gas for $2 an hour. Now he makes $15 an hour in a mine.

Half of all the uranium known to exist in the United States is in a 100-mile strip of west-central New Mexico. Near the center of the strip is Grants.

Once again the Grants population is booming — as of now about 12,000 and climbing — and once again the city is experiencing wrenching growth.

City Manager Anthony Vasilakis remains confident the boom can be contained.

"Here's what we'll do," he said. "We'll get some state money somewhere along in there. Then the feds will come along and we'll be able to match some of theirs, and we'll build these basic lines — the collector lines and the water lines — some of that."

"Then the subdivider will come along, and he'll pay for every damned thing he does — every water line, every sewer line, streets, curbs, gutters, everything. So they give us a turn-key job of property that's completely developed, with people living on it and paying taxes. Then you have the money to move a little bit farther."

Meanwhile, housing remains a critical problem.

The brakes were applied to construction when Gas Co. of New Mexico placed a moratorium on new natural gas hookups in the area. The company said the Federal Power Commission had limited its allocation of interstate gas for New Mexico, the nation's fourth largest producer of natural gas.

The moratorium is only now being lifted after six months.

At nearby San Mateo, population 300, house trailers hide behind centuries-old adobe homes. At the Spanish-Indian village of Bibo, trailers are scattered helter-skelter inside wooden corrals or stand alone on concrete foundations. At the Laguna Indian Pueblo they appear in anachronistic contrast with earth-colored homes, whitewashed missions and wooden outhouses.

Not surprisingly, some who are prospering by the uranium boom also have mixed feelings about its effect on a way of life.

"I didn't feel too bad about the uranium when it was far from here," said Arthur Candelaria. "It's right at our doorstep now that I like it too good."

Candelaria, 40, said dates back to the origiof changes. And it'll get worse. It's going to ruin the whole town."

On the other hand, Oracio S. Marquez, who has lived in San Mateo nearly all his 59 years, sees some benefit.

"We used to make a living out of farming and ranching and that's about all we knew," he said. "I used to go outside the town and work part of the year, then come back and stay five or six months at home. Now there's several uranium companies out here and we all work for them."

One group that surely has more money are the natives of the area whose ancestry dates back even further. About half the New Mexico uranium production is on Indian land (with about 25 per cent on private land and the remainder about evenly divided between state and federal land).

Tourists still leave Interstate 40 to photograph the scenic pueblo, but from the highway you can't see the television antennas that sprout from nearly every adobe roof. The Laguna Indian Reservation — Laguna Pueblo (3,500 people) — may be on the verge of middle class.

At Paguate, one of five outvillages of Laguna Pueblo, an old Indian man stood beside a pinon fence he built 50 years ago and contemplated the gigantic gash in the earth that is the Jackpile mine.

He didn't, he said, object to the mine. Instead he seemed awed by its grand proportions.

He tried to explain its depth and breadth and the huge machines that take great bites of the earth. He repeated the story of Paddy Martinez and wondered "if that old Navajo's still alive somewhere."

He was sorry to hear that the man who discovered the uranium died in 1990.

The old man said there's plenty of money in Paguate now. His sister had a new room added to her house and "a lot of people just bought a bunch of houses to rent and then they moved off to Albuquerque."

"They get a lot of money from that mine, my people do."

Roland Johnson, Laguna's governor, said there's very little opposition to the mine, "but there is a concern. The Pueblos revere earth, and for many people it is, in their eyes, criminal for us to be abusing Mother Earth as we are."

Another concern, throughout the New Mexico uranium belt, is even more ominous. It is summed up in a warning sign posted near the door to the Laguna tribal office:

"If you have rocks, sand or mining waste from the Jackpile-Paguate mine or the arroyos below the mine, please contact the governor's office. This material may be radioactive and hazardous to use as building material."

Much of the opposition to the uranium industry revolves around the issue of radioactivity.

The tailings left by the mines and mills around Grants contain radium, which produces as it decomposes a radioactive gas called radon. Some research has associated radon with cancer.

The mining companies say the tailings pose no danger because they are kept behind fences on private property. Environmental groups want the tailings buried or in some way removed completely from the environment. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has not taken a public position.

The state planning officer, Dr. Grace Olivarez, has estimated that by 1990 the tailings piles could contain 280 million tons — "enough to cover Albuquerque to a depth of 22 inches."

And, she added, there are no state or federal regulations governing the disposal of uranium tailings.

The danger of radiation is debated almost endlessly, but not in Grants.

"We don't get too excited about it," said Jean Fisher, director of the Grants Chamber of Commerce. "It just doesn't seem to bother us. Maybe that's because we're prosperous and we like it."

PORLTAND, Ore. (AP) — A miserably wet, windy, cold Thanksgiving eve in 1971.

Passengers waited at the Northwest Orient Airlines counter at Portland International Airport to book space on Flight 105 to Seattle.

Many thought ahead to family reunions, turkey dinners, long relaxed conversations and perhaps a traditional game of bridge or Monopoly later.

But one didn't.

Dan Cooper paid cash for his ticket, then, clutching a paper sack, boarded the Boeing 727 for the 30-minute flight.

A few minutes after the plane nosed into the storm, he made his move. He showed the stewardess what he said was a dynamite bomb and demanded four parachutes, $20,000 in $20 bills, and "no funny stu."

All the passengers but Cooper got off at Seattle, unaware that anything was amiss.

The money and parachutes were put on board and the jet, with only the crew and Cooper aboard, headed for Reno on Cooper's orders.

Then somewhere over southwest Washington, Cooper, with the 21 pounds of money strapped to him, bailed out.

He hasn't been heard from since.

If he's alive, and that's a big "if," the five-year statute of limitations runs out this Thanksgiving eve, Nov. 24.

Or does it?

"We're going ahead on the assumption that the statute doesn't apply, because when he did what he did, capital punishment was a possibility. There's no statute on capital crimes," says FBI agent Ralph Himmelsbach.

Anyway, he says, chances are good that Cooper is dead.

"Not one of the 10,000 bills has shown up, and we know the serial number of every one of them," he said. And Cooper apparently knew nothing about skydiving.

In a business suit and street shoes, he jumped from the rear door of a jet going 197 m.p.h. at 10,000 feet. At that elevation it was seven below zero that night, with a wind-chill factor of 69 below zero.

The plane was in clouds. "Up looked like down to him. He had no visual reference. He couldn't have possibly known where he was."

Cooper picked some of the roughest country in the Pacific Northwest.

The other was a training chute used for demonstrations. The panels had been sewn shut. It wouldn't have opened.

The next night the FBI re-enacted the skyjacking using the same plane, crew, fuel load, speed and altitude. The test helped flight engineers and meteorologists to compute the probable drop zone to be a trapezoidal area covering about 25 square miles.

It has been searched and researched in vain.

What would it take to find Cooper's remains, assuming they are there?

Russian Tea, fashions highlight Mobile's first condominium tour

Cold weather is here, and with it a chance to journey on Nov. 23, into the world of Dr. Zhivago via the Greater Mobile Concerts Inc. A Russian Tea and fashion show which will follow an innovation in the homes tour scene.

The organization's Women's Committee has planned a tour of four condominiums at Place LeVert. After guests have inspected the residences of Mr. and Mrs. David Martin, Carl Glass, Mrs. Palmer Gaillard and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCown, at 101, 106, 103 and 110 Place Levert, respectively, another tour is in store.

The second tour, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Prince, 3950 Old Shell Road, will include peeks at this turn-of-the-century home and will offer sartorial and gustatory treats in the Russian fashion.

A fashion show which stars ethnic styles from D.H. Holmes and a sampling of Russian pastries and tea will take place informally at the Prince home.

Tickets must be purchased from Marsyl Dees, 2015 Pt. LeGere, Mobile 36605 on or before Nov. 20. The price is $3.

Chairman of the committee is Mrs. Arthur Prince. Committee chairmen are: reception: Mrs. Gerald Applegate; fashion show: Mrs. Harold Parkman; baked goods: Mrs. John W. Nelson; mailing: Mrs. A.H. Boyd; music: Mrs. William Henry Curtright; and treasurer: Mrs. A. LaMont Dees. Q. I thought hair grew faster in the winter, but mine seems to be falling out by the handful.

A. Contrary to an animal whose fur thickens in winter, human hair grows faster in the summer, due partly to your increased physical activity. If you're losing a lot of hair, pull one hair from the scalp and check for a broken end; if the hair has a broken end, conditioners can help. However, if the end is bulb-shaped, you should consult a dermatologist as this is an indication of internal problems that may be causing excessive hair loss.

How Blue Cross Protection Works

When your doctor arranges for your admission to a hospital, present your Blue Cross card to the admitting clerk. The hospital will bill Blue Cross direct.

While you are away from home, if it is necessary for you to be hospitalized, the local Blue Cross Plan serving the area will take care of your Blue Cross benefits just as if you were one of their members. If the hospital is not a Blue Cross member hospital, please ask the hospital to communicate with us.

If you should pay the hospital bill yourself, submit the receipted bill to us and you will be reimbursed for the benefits provided by your contract.

To Our Checking Account Depositors:

It is good banking practice to ask our checking account depositors periodically to verify the balances shown by their records with the amounts on the ledger records of the bank.

Your assistance in helping verify the correctness of your bank balance would be appreciated. Please complete this form by having it signed by an authorized signer, and returning it to the internal auditors in the accompanying envelope. Any difference should be noted on the reverse side of this form.

E. S. Gaidry, President

The Bank statement showing the balance indicated below is correct. The receipt of all paid and canceled checks, or vouchers, covering all debit entries to date on this account is hereby acknowledged. Differences or exceptions, if any, are noted on the back of this form.

about 18½ million were issued. Weak public demand, primarily a result of the $2 bills' relative scarcity, contributed to the discontinuance.

By contrast, 225 million of the new series 1976 bills were available on April 13, 1976, and about 400 million notes will be circulated by this summer.

The reissue of the two-dollar denomination was prompted in part by a Harvard School of Business study that showed a need for a currency between $1 and $5 bills.

In addition, the new $2 notes are expected to cut the volume of $1 notes in half over the next several years, which should result in a savings of about $35 million for the Federal Reserve System and the Treasury Department.

The new $2 bill, issued on Thomas Jefferson's birthday, bears his portrait which was painted in the early 1800s by Gilbert Stuart. The face plate is quite similar to the previous issue.

The design of the reverse plate of the bill is completely new. It bears a vignette of John Trumbull's painting, "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." However, design considerations required that six figures appearing on the extreme left and right hand borders of the original art were dropped in the rendition.

The two-dollar bill is being issued in conjunction with the Bicentennial. However, it is seen as a permanent addition to currency in circulation and will continue to be issued in subsequent years.

Dollars & Sense

COMPLIMENTS OF

THE TWO-DOLLAR BILL— A BICENTENNIAL REISSUE

The crisp new $2 bill that you may have in your pocket or purse has a rich tradition in American History. Two hundred years ago, June 25, 1776, just nine days before the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the Continental Congress issued the first two-dollar "bills of credit for the defense of America."

Since 1862, they have been issued as official U.S. currency appearing as U.S. notes, silver certificates, treasury notes, national bank currencies and Federal Reserve Notes.

Two-dollar bills were last printed in 1965 and were discontinued in 1966. Only

SAVE to Beat the High Cost of Education

Today's cost of educating your child in a typically priced private college is just over $12,000. The cost, however, has over the past five years risen 5 percent per year. That means, next year and each year thereafter the cost to you will continue to grow. Now is the time to begin saving for that future education. Let your accumulating savings interest offset the rising cost.

The important question for you to face is—How much do I save each year to accumulate the necessary funds to meet the rising costs? Economists suggest this formula:

$$\text{Amount to save per year} = \frac{\text{Estimated yearly expense} \times 4}{\# \text{ of years till college} + 3}$$

Suppose you decide to send your child of 9 to the typically priced private school. You must save $1000 per year.

$$\begin{array}{r} $3000 \times 4 \\ $1000 = \hline 9 + 3 \end{array}$$

The estimated yearly expense of $3000 times four years of school divided by the nine years left until she starts college plus three equals $1000.

Remember the accumulated interest on your savings account each year more than offsets the rising cost of higher education. But beware—the later you start saving the more you must save each year.

DB Cooper-37732

THE IDLE DOLLAR— A MYTH

Dollars deposited in your bank do not, as many believe, remain idle in the bank. With absolute safety to you, your deposits help expand the local economy, create higher personal income and increase our state's net worth.

Banks must keep only a portion of their deposits as cash reserves. Much of the remainder is available for lending and for turnover in the local economy—to finance expanding business, industry, farming operations and personal needs such as cars, homes and appliances.

The loans actually create new jobs, higher incomes and greater demands from consumers, all of which create new deposits which provide for more new loans. This multiplies the effect of the original deposit.

Your deposits also benefit the economy of the state through assisting in community developments through the purchase of bonds issued to build schools, construct other public buildings, waterworks, make street improvements, building parks and other civic projects.

Deposits of public funds are also at work. Surplus funds of local governments which remain in our banking system until they are spent create new money, allow more spending and expand the state's economy.

Your deposited dollars and those of your friends, acquaintances and neighborhood businessmen are always at work benefiting your community, your state and you.

IS YOUR HOME BURGLAR PROOF?

Apartment dwellers and home owners alike are susceptible to the professional burglars of today. No amount of insurance can spare you the agony and heartbreak of having irreplaceable prized personal possessions stolen.

Even though it is almost impossible to completely burglar-proof your home in this era of burglaries not only in the big cities but in the suburbs and countryside as well, it is advantageous for you to plan your home protection carefully.

- Don't assume that burglars operate only at night. The number of daytime burglaries (as many as at night) is on the rise.
- Use cylinder (dead-bolt) locks on all outside doors and make sure that unused doors are always locked.
- Purchase a peephole, so you can see who's at the door before you open it.
- Don't put any identification on your keys.
- Make sure that door hinges are on the inside.
- Have locks and keys changed if you move to a new home or apartment.
- Keep a record of the serial numbers of items that carry them.
- Use the property identification system endorsed by your local police.
- Investigate the possibility of having an alarm system installed.

WHEN TO USE SPECIALIZED CHECKS!

Most bank customers are quite familiar with personal checks, but the realm of specialized items is not always quite so clear . . . certified checks, cashier's checks, money orders and traveler's checks!

What is a certified check? A certified check is a guarantee that funds have been set aside to cover the amount of the check. To purchase one, go to the bank, write a personal check for the proper amount. The bank sets aside that amount of money from your account and stamps "Certified" across the face of

UNIT PRICING— A SAVINGS TOOL

A product's unit price is how much the item costs per pound, per ounce, per pint, and so on. Because different brands of the same product may come in different sized packaging, the best way to know which costs less is to compare the unit price.

To figure the unit price yourself, simply divide the price of the item by the amount in the package. For example, a 12 oz. can of frozen lemonade for 48¢ (4¢ per ounce) is 1¢ less per ounce than a 6 oz. can of frozen lemonade for 30¢ (5¢ per ounce).

Many stores are now posting unit prices on the shelves near the item. This is a big help for economy conscious shoppers.

your check. Certified checks are most often used to make large purchases or to close on homes.

What is a cashier's check? A cashier's check is a bank-guaranteed check, the bank's own order to make payment out of bank funds. When you purchase this check, you specify to whom the bank should make out the check and retain a carbon or stub for your records. It's a safe way to transfer major amounts of money from one place to another.

What about a money order? It's a means of transferring money without using cash or a personal check and can be purchased at the bank. It will show your name as purchaser and the name of the person who is to receive the payment.

What is a traveler's check? It is a specially designed payment devised for people away from home and can be cashed throughout the world. The checks are preprinted in various denominations, usually $10, $20, $50 and $100. You choose the total amount you wish to buy and the denominations as well.

When you purchase traveler's checks, you sign your name in a designated place on each one. Immediately before cashing a check, you sign it again. If traveler's checks are lost or stolen, your money will be refunded.

Note: A small fee is normally charged for these specialized items!
